During the summer of 2004, work started on the construction of five-bedroom house in Denton , Nr Canterbury, Kent.

The property has a large basement area which involved large scale excavations and damp proofing works. Internally, it has a new bespoke oak staircase and balustrading along with oak internal doors and frames and two herringbone brickwork and oak fireplaces. We installed a high specification master bathroom and en-suite bathrooms together with a hand made kitchen all to the exacting demands of the client.

Externally, the property has new oak windows including a full height oak glazed bay window to the front elevation. We laid new patio areas to its the perimeter and formed a new driveway to the main entrance. The project was completed and handed over in April 2006.
