Sittingbourne Residential Property

A lovely couple that were expecting twins approached us to update their home. Consequently a-very quick turn around on the works to their Sittingbourne residential property was the order of the day. The works included the installation and relocation of a new boiler, two extra kitchen units as well as renovation of the family bathroom. Additionally, boarding out of the loft space and the upgrading of the electricity circuits to provide electrical protection was needed. From initial survey to completion was only three weeks and the client was significantly happy with the end result.
