New School Kitchen Extractor Hood

Sittingbourne Community College had an inspection by a local authority fire officer. They were advised that the schools extraction system as well as the fire suppression system required upgrading. This was to meet current regulations. Therefore a new school kitchen extractor hood was required. We installed a complete new extraction canopy hood. This included new gas safety valves and isolators. The new hood is fully compliant to current regulations. The inclusion of an air circulation system to the hood has made the kitchen a nicer area to work in.
