School Science Room Refurbishment

Waller Building Services has just completed this school science room refurbishment. Following a failing with the floor ducts within 2 science rooms it was decided to rectify the problem once and for all. Waller Building Services disconnected and removed the existing science benches and set them to one side, removed the floor coverings to the room and striped the floor ducts of all pipework, electrics and insulation. The ducts were then prepared using a liquid damp proof membrane, new insulation laid, pipework and electric ducting was installed, finally the ducts were mass filled with concrete.

This method provides a sound solid base for the new floor covering and once the benches were reinstalled the rooms were back in use for the new school term.
